

Deutsche Bank 10th Annual Global Consumer Conference

Presentation by:

Jim Craigie, Chairman & CEO
Matt Farrell, EVP & CFO

June 11th, 2013

Safe Harbor Statement

This presentation contains forward-looking statements relating, among others, to short- and long-term financial objectives, sales and earnings growth, margin improvement, marketing spending, new product introductions, the timing of new product launches, consumer demand for the Company's products, earnings per share and other financial metrics. These statements represent the intentions, plans, expectations and beliefs of the Company, and are subject to risks, uncertainties and other factors, many of which are outside the Company's control and could cause actual results to differ materially from such forward-looking statements. The uncertainties include assumptions as to market growth and consumer demand (including the effect of political and economic events on consumer demand), raw material and energy prices, the financial condition of major customers, and increased marketing spending. With regard to the new product introductions referred to in this presentation, there is particular uncertainty relating to trade, competitive and consumer reactions. Other factors, which could materially affect the results, include the outcome of contingencies, including litigation, pending regulatory proceedings, environmental remediation and the divestiture of assets. For a description of additional factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from the forward looking statements, see the Company's quarterly and annual reports filed with the SEC.

This presentation contains non-GAAP financial measures, including organic sales growth, adjusted earnings per share, adjusted gross margin, free cash flow and EBITDA. The Appendix at the end of this presentation includes definition of these non-GAAP measures and reconciles such measures to the most directly comparable GAAP measures. We believe that the presentation of these non-GAAP financial measures, among other things, provides enhanced visibility into our performance. It is important to view each of these non-GAAP financial measures in addition to, rather that as a substitute for, the comparable GAAP measures.

FREE VIBRATORS ON AGAIN! OH, YES!
New York Post, Friday, August 10, 2012 nypost.com
GET YOURS: An oh-so-close-to-ecstatic Lauren Moller (right) joined a long line yesterday for a free vibrator, a day after the city shut down the promotion (below).
City Hall OKs giveaway
By AMBER SUTHERLAND and TODD VENEZIA
Mayor Bloomberg has finally decided to let freedom buzz.
After disappointing throngs of New York women by putting the squeeze on a vibrator giveaway Wednesday, City Hall allowed the Trojan company to hand out free sex toys yesterday in — where else? — the Meatpacking District.
An electric atmosphere pulsed up and down 14th Street near 10th Avenue as thousands of women, and quite a few men, gathered to collect their plastic pleasure wands from a pushcart.
"The city made a mea culpa, and the turnaround is good," gushed Lauren Moller, a 27-year-old teacher from Staten Island who queued up for the battery-powered rocket ride. "I don't think the city shutting it down yesterday was good for New York."
Rose Moon, 29, of Sunnyside, Queens, was among the crowd of pleasure seekers — and she was hoping to get her hand on one that was especially durable.
"You go through the small, cheap ones pretty quickly," Moon said as she waited in the line. "I'm hoping that this will be better than the ones I'm used to and [I can] keep it for life!"
Trojan had originally planned to hand out up to 10,000 vibrators all around the city in a two-day extravaganza starting Wednesday.
The giveaway attracted hundreds of spots downtown and in the Flatiron District. But after only a few minutes, some buzz killers from the Bloomberg administration shut the events down over permit issues.
Trojan later worked out a deal with City Hall that allowed it to pay a $3,100 permit fee and set up its Pleasure Cart on West 14th Street. It gave out some 3,600 tingers in two hours, a rep said.
"We are pleased to have worked with the City of New York to have made this Trojan vibrations giveaway a success," a company rep said.
Within an hour, the company had handed out hundreds of the vibrators. They come in two versions, which normally sell for $30 or $40, depending on the features.
Batteries were included.
"I think it's great that they are here now," said Amanda Brown, 25, of Crown Heights, Brooklyn.
"If they have the permit, they have every right to be here."
The event attracted vibrator aficionados and neophytes alike.
"I go way back with vibrators," said Helene Verin, 57, a designer from the Flatiron District.
"It started when I was ill with my parent's [electric] toothbrush. It's for personal use — and my boyfriend feels great about it!"
Teressa Walsh, 23, said she never used a vibrator before and decided to give one a whirl.
"I hope it will be a good experience," she said. "My boyfriend is into the idea. He doesn't feel threatened. It's not gonna replace him."
One of the men in line, Homer Turgeon, 24, planned to make use of his vibrator as a somewhat unusual family gift.
"It's for my mother," the 24-year-old Manhattan law student said. "She's a dear, sweet woman. I'll mail it to her in Washington."

Organic Sales Growth

The presentation provides information regarding organic sales growth, namely net sales growth excluding the effect of acquisitions, divestitures, the change in customer shipping arrangements, foreign exchange rate changes, the impact of an information systems upgrade, a discontinued product line and the change in the fiscal calendar for three foreign subsidiaries, from year-over-year comparisons. Management believes that the presentation of organic sales growth is useful to investors because it enables them to assess, on a consistent basis, sales trends related to products that were marketed by the Company during the entirety of relevant periods excluding the change in customer shipping arrangements and the SAP Conversion, without the effect of the change in the fiscal calendar and foreign exchange rate changes that are out of the control of, and do not reflect the performance of, management.
