State Street Announces Winners of 2024 UK Institutional Press Awards

LONDON, April 4 2025 – State Street Corporation (NYSE: STT), today announces the winners of its twenty-third State Street UK Institutional Press Awards, which recognize outstanding contributions in institutional financial services journalism.

The annual awards honour the contributions of journalists covering institutional investment themes including investor services, pensions, regulation, investments and capital markets, private markets and alternatives, data and technology, passive investments, sustainable investment and stewardship in 2024.

The winning articles were chosen based on their style, content, accuracy and timeliness, and were judged by an independent panel of six industry professionals led by veteran freelance journalists Pádraig Floyd and Lynn Strongin Dodds. The two lead judges were supported by respected figures from the European financial services industry including:

- Miranda Seath, Director, Market Insight & Fund Sectors, The Investment Association
- Edwin Whitehead, Director Sustainable Investment, Redington
- Rick Lacaille, Senior Advisor
- Liz Lynxwiler, Director of Governance and Company Secretary, London CIV

Journalists were presented with their awards at an event held in London, and the prestigious Award for Outstanding Contribution to Institutional Journalism 2024, which is nominated and voted by the judges, was given to Lauren Mills at IPE. Judges were in unanimous agreement for the winner which Lauren thoroughly deserved due to her outstanding, consistent and relevant reporting on key industry topics across her career spanning over almost two decades.

Michael Eldridge, UK Country Head and Head of Global Markets for the UK, State Street, commented on the awards: "Congratulations to this year's winners and shortlisted journalists for their exceptional talent and dedication to accurate reporting on the ever evolving financial landscape. The standard this year was particularly high, and we are proud to champion the journalists who are leading the way and setting the conversation to help educate and inform financial institutions and investors on important topics shaping the news agenda."
