Broadridge Ranks #3 in IDC FinTech Rankings Top 100 for the Fourth Straight Year, Helping Financial Institutions Turn Innovation into Impact

2026-10-20

Twelve consecutive years on the list reflect Broadridge's enduring role in powering financial services modernization

NEW YORK, Oct. 20, 2026 /PRNewswire/ -- Broadridge (NYSE: BR), a global Fintech leader, today announced its #3 ranking in the 2026 IDC FinTech Rankings Top 100, its fourth consecutive year in the position and twelfth consecutive year on the list. The recognition highlights Broadridge's sustained position among the technology providers supporting the global financial services industry.

Financial institutions face a clear imperative: innovate faster while keeping critical operations running. Broadridge helps firms meet both demands, bringing together trusted expertise and transformative technology to simplify complexity, modernize operations and elevate investor experiences.

"Broadridge continues to be on this list at rank 3 because it has consistently executed on the innovation necessary to keep the financial service industry at the forefront of providing modern digital experiences, technologies and platforms across all wealth and asset managers, capital markets and banking," Jerry Silva, program vice president at IDC.

"The real test of innovation is putting it to work at scale, and I want to thank IDC for again recognizing Broadridge's leadership," said Tim Gokey, CEO of Broadridge. "We are committed to helping our clients streamline their operations, adapt to new technologies, and create richer digital experiences. Looking ahead, the pace of change is continuing to accelerate as digital engagement, agentic AI, and tokenization are set to transform client relationships, operations, and trading and Broadridge is stepping up to deliver that change for our clients."

From digitizing corporate governance to simplifying capital markets and modernizing wealth and investment management, Broadridge focuses on the systems and experiences at the heart of financial services. Its technology-driven solutions help banks, broker-dealers, portfolio managers and public companies tackle operational complexity and build for the future.

The 2026 IDC FinTech Rankings assesses leading global financial technology providers based on 2025 calendar-year revenues from financial institutions for hardware, software and services. IDC's evaluation draws on earnings reports, publicly available presentations and corporate filings. Broadridge's sustained top-three position underscores its scale and standing among the providers powering the industry.
