Medellin, Colombia - February 2022. Auna initiated its operations at its new headquarters of the Las Americas Auna hospital in Colombia. This medical complex adds 155 beds and is located in the municipality of Envigado, Antioquia, in a strategic area that expands the healthcare possibilities for the inhabitants of the south of Medellin. With this development, the organization strengthens its commitment to transform healthcare in Latin America through synergies, the exchange of best clinical practices and personalized patient care between Peru and Colombia.

"Our goal is to transform the healthcare and wellness in Latin America and we believe we are on the right track. Currently, we are present in Peru and Colombia, with 21 hospitals and medical centers, health plans, as well as a telemedicine platform, thanks to the efforts of over 9,000 collaborators among medical, assistance and administrative personnel. Today we are very pleased to add the Envigado headquarters, growing the Auna network at a regional level, renewing our commitment to expand health coverage with an offer of specialized services and with the highest quality standards", said Luis Felipe Pinillos, CEO of Auna.

This new headquarters joins the efforts that the organization has been carrying out in the region to expand the offer of health care services with high quality standards, such as the recently inaugurated Chiclayo headquarters, its seventh clinic in Peru. In this sense, the network of hospitals seeks to continue consolidating itself as a benchmark in healthcare in Latin America.
