Current Trading and Outlook

- As at 30 June 2023 ("Q1 FY24"), both AUM and FUM were marginally lower at £12.0 billion and £8.8 billion respectively
 - This reflects a combination of negative FX movements and net OEIC outflows, which were partially offset by inflows into high margin products
 - Additionally, we received further commitments into ARIF

Bernard Fairman, Executive Chairman of Foresight Group Holdings Limited, commented:

"This was a record year of highly profitable growth for Foresight, which saw the Group extend its excellent track record of delivering against ambitious growth targets and materially increasing shareholder returns with a very significant increase to the dividend.

"We are now focused on further organic growth and have a strong pipeline of fundraising across asset classes scheduled for this year and beyond. This includes established strategies such as ARIF and FEIP, alongside new opportunities such as core European renewables and our expansion into adjacent asset classes such as hydrogen. We also continue to assess the market for accretive M&A opportunities, although the timing of these remains unpredictable.

"The market opportunity for Foresight is very significant. Our infrastructure investment strategies cover the whole spectrum of renewable energy generation, transition and wider economic decarbonisation. This positions us well to support the broader energy transition by investing in real assets that are driving this change.

"Despite current uncertainty in the markets, we remain confident in the ability of our diversified business model to deliver profitable growth in FY24. This will be achieved through a combination of high-quality recurring revenue and a visible pipeline of high margin retail and institutional fundraising."
